Dear Friends

Thirty-three millimetres of rain assisted with the Weedbusters Day. How? It made the Paterson's Curse lose its grip on the earth and succumb to the pull of willing hands and provided a clear fresh day for working. There weren't many of us but we had a large trailer load of PC by 1pm. A walk to the top of Mt Ochertyre gave us a great view over the plains towards the Murray River and filled many socks with seeds. The Mount was named by explorer Major Thomas Mitchell in 1836 after he ascended a low hill to view the lands north of the river. {Major Mitchell book}. His patron was Sir George Murray of Ochertyre in Scotland so he named the Mount after his home town and the Murray River after his patron. One can only wonder what the vegetation consisted of in the 1880's. Today the mount supports scattered Red Gums, Box trees and a few Cypress Pines. The understorey is grassy which is presently approximately 70% introduced species and rest native.

After lunch with the friendly flies we returned to the park for the afternoon. Visitors from Holland who were interested in Turquoise Parrots joined us for our afternoon walk.

Goodbye Natasha.

Natasha has been our National Regent Honeyeater co-ordinator for three years. She has also given us much pleasure through her knowledge and love of bats. It is to bats that we have lost her! I'm sure every member will join with me in wishing Natasha well in her new job.

Note: Bats with Natasha will be on again at the January 10/11th campout. To assist with numbers members are asked to register their intention to attend as soon as possible. The group will be limited to 30 persons.

Park Celebration Weekend:

This was a resounding success. 300 people attended over the weekend far exceeding our expectations. The time and effort put into the organisation by Ranger John ensured that everything ran smoothly, right down to the last sausage matching the last crust of bread! I lie not. Ask Tony Long and Terry Walsh who manned the BBQ. Thank you to the Friends members and Parks staff who helped with the various events.

To Sticky Jam the jazz band that provided the music a big thank you. The atmosphere in the tourist park was just great.

We acquired new members through our display and sold a lot of T shirts.

Next year with the centenary of parks in Victoria we hope to repeat the event.

Shop Window:

Adrian Gray, owner of an empty shop in the Conness St., Chiltern has allowed me to put the Chiltern Park display in the window. It will assist us to advertise the park and our T shirts. If you can contribute to the display it would be a big help. Ideas / photos/ drawings / items of interest please send them along.

From the meeting:

1. A grant of $100 was received from Indigo Shire for the tree planting on Rutherglen Rd.
2. The National Park signs are in place. We just need updated brochures to convince people!
3. Sales of T shirts are booming. Have you got yours yet? Albury/Wodonga Environment Centre committee has purchased shirts to sell in the shop. We appreciate their assistance.
4. Accounts were passed for payment.

No New National Parks for Victoria

The Age, Saturday November 1st. Some extracts from the article:

“The State Government has ruled out establishing any more major national parks -apart from marine parks- in Victoria”

“Mr Stone said the Government believed that with 4 million hectares of land protected by national parks and reserves, more big parks were not required”

“Mr Stone said there were not enough grasslands and box-ironbark woodlands in the reserve system, which aims to protect at least 15% of the state’s vegetation types, but the Government was looking to organisations such as The Trust For Nature and The Australian Bush Heritage Fund to protect such areas”.

Please write to the editors of newspapers and your local politicians voicing your dismay at such statements.
